

Hair Apparent

November 19, 2008

By: Kristin Munro

kmunro@aroundphilly.com

These rough economic times mean that we've had to break it off with a lot of people who've always been there for us in an effort to save a buck. We've swapped dry cleaners, stopped calling our landscaper and axed the dog walker. But the hardest cuts of all have been our colorist, manicurist and masseuse. The stylist switcheroo has been a lot easier since we found out about Salon Norman Dee, a hub of beauty activity located in a Northeast Philly strip mall. The deceptively large space is home to a small army of stylists who snip, straighten and color in the mirror-filled salon, and do manis, pedis and spa services in the rooms beyond. On the short list of Salon Norman Dee's many money-saving services is the simple-but-necessary cut and style, where you can book a senior stylist for under $50. Book early in the week, around lunchtime, when the salon is slower and you can cut back on something else not to be wasted: time.

Visit Salon Norman Dee

Previous "What we Love" Articles:

Signed, Sealed, Delivered
That Warm, Fuzzy Feeling
A Piece of Pie
Tribal Tales
All in Bloom

» Go to Salon Norman Dee